SKIN TO LOVE

Our Brand Assets

v1. 08/22

The Skin to Love identity is created using a number of key assets which include the logo, motif, fonts, colours, strapline and copylines. It is the way that these elements are used together which forms the recognisable Skin to Love brand.

This set of brand guidelines provides an overview of the key assets which are available to use, and guidance as to how they should be applied.

Please contact our brand designers, Silk Pearce with any queries regarding these guidelines or the Skin to Love brand.

Logo

The Skin to Love logo has been designed to be clearly recognisable. It uses a typeface which has traditional origins but has been given a contemporary edge. Wise and serene in tone with soft roundness of curves, it has an air of authority and confidence, but at the same time is delicate and calm.

It is available to use as either a Dark Grey version, or White. These are the only two versions that are to be used. They must not be altered or adapted in any way.

Logo usage

Both versions of the Skin to Love logo can be used following these rules:

Which colour version?

Dark Grey should generally be used on light backgrounds or images. White should be used when placed against dark backgrounds or images.

Alignment

The logo can be aligned left, right or centred within a document. There is no lower limit on size as long as it remains legible. The vector (AI) version of the logo can be used at any enlarged scale as it has no resolution limitations.

Exclusion zone

The logo should be used with an exclusion zone around it, meaning that nothing else should encroach within this area. This measurement is at least half of the width of the logo.

Motif

The Skin to Love 'S' motif has been drawn by world renowned lettering and type designer, Peter Horridge, in collaboration with our brand designers, Silk Pearce.

It is designed to not only be a recognisable mark that is synonymous with Skin to Love, but to also act as a visual metaphor for the quality, care and professionalism of the clinic, and the service provided to our clients. Think of it in terms of a mark of quality or seal of approval.

Motif usage

The Skin to Love motif can be used in a variety of ways, but should never be used as a replacement for our master logo.

Subtle
It is important to use the motif subtly in a complimentary colour or tint of the background colour, so it appears like a watermark or embossing.

Pattern
The motif can work as a repeat pattern to add texture and interest. Careful consideration should be given to the colours, space and scale.

Highlight
Used small, the motif can be in a more contrasting colour and acts as a device to draw attention to a headline or call to action.

Texture
When used large and in a very subtle colour-way, the motif adds texture and interest to a solid colour background.

Fonts

The Skin to Love brand uses two fonts:

Louize Display Regular should be used mainly for headings but can be considered for a small paragraph of introduction text to act as a contrast.

Josefin Sans is used for the main body of paragraph text and can be used for sub-headings.

Both fonts are available in a family of weights and styles, although Louize Display should only be used in the Regular weight. Each font and weight also has an italic variant, but should be used sparingly.

Fonts and appropriate licences are available from 205.tf/Font/24/louize-display and fontsquirrel.com/fonts/josefin-sans

Colours

The Skin to Love brand has a palette of 10 carefully chosen colours. These colours are inviting and contemporary, whilst complementing the ethos, services and interior of the clinic. They have been designed to appeal to our broad demographic of clientele.

No other colours should be used except for those specified within these guidelines.

CMYK (for print), RGB and Hexadecimal (for on-screen) values have been specified.

The main colour is Dark Grey. This colour should be used instead of black.

Strapline

Our strapline has a great double meaning and captures the spirit and ethos of Skin To Love.

Its inclusion in any marketing material is optional and is flexible enough to work as a headline, call to action or as a sign off to reinforce the brand messaging.

Copylines

The Skin to Love identity is complimented by a range of copylines. Tone of voice is an important part of our identity. A great way to communicate our brand values effectively, is to use a copyline, such as one of the examples shown.

As with our brand strapline, there are no hard and fast rules about when to use them and they can work across a variety of items in different ways.
